UNDER WHICH LAW?

The Rumor Concerning the Supreme Court Decision.

BUSINESS IN THE SUPREME COURT

Third District Court Routine, and the Matters Before Probate Judge Bartch on Monday.

It is understood that the four judges have arrived at a decision in the case recently submitted to them in order to test the question whether the coming city election is to be held under the city charter or under the law of 1888. Just what the decision is, will not be known until this morning at 10, when it will be delivered. It was common talk on the streets last Berry has succeeded a line of experts who evening, however, that the judges would hold that the election will come under the law of 1818, which does away with the have some of them been famous. There was Jack Ketch, Calcraft and Marwood, all of whom made improvements on the old pro-cess, and now James Berry has come in for a leather washer for the rope which outdoes all other innovations.

HANGMAN BERRY.

Mr. Berry is not an easy man for a news-paper reporter to get at. Some time ago he tniked to a member of the press too freely, and was warned by the government that if he did it again he would lose his position. This frightened him so that he has never opened his mouth since, till lately a reporter of The New York Sun got hold of him, and by crossing his palm with a few shiners, induced him to talk about himself in a fashion quite entertaining to all lovers of the borri-

There are pathetic passages in the lives of the lowliest—those most devoid of ordinary sensibilities. Berry told the story of how he happened to become a hangman, and it is as affecting, though not so horrible, as his accounts of the many deaths be has accomplished

"You see, when Marwood dies and the ap-pointment is vacant I makes application to the ome secretary at the same time with Bar-tholomew Binns. Father was a carpet spinner in Heckmondyke, about six miles of here. 'E owned a big mill and employed scores of men until 'e lost 'is property through 'is debt-ors being bankrupt. 'E 'od twenty-one children, and 'e gave every one of us a boardink school education except three. They was,"

The hangman's tone had softened a trifle as store. A. J. Hills, agent. he related this instance of filial devotion, and he went on in a more brusk tone, as if deprecating the follies of earlier days, sends in my resignation, and Bartholomew Binns, he gets th' appointment, but it don't do no good, for the mother dies before she gets out of bed, and I was sorry enough, I can tell you, that I'd been such a fool."

There is something singular to contemplat-ing a human being who had the heart to give up the inestimable privilege of hanging peo-ple to save his mother's life, and regretting that he'd "been such a fool," when she for whom he made the sacrifice died notwithstanding. However, he got the position after all, for Mr. Binns, who got appointed, botched caty.

I tell th' sheriff as 'ow I might have 'ad th' appointment before, and what was my qualifications. He sends me word back to get papers from the chief constable in Bradford that I am th' right man, and not to breathe a word to nobody about it. Well, sir, I didn't even tell the missus that, and when I went to Scotland and did th' job, me and th'chief constable and sheriff in Scotland and th'ome secretary was th'only persons

Some of my corpses you couldn't tell if they died a natural death, as many of 'em seems smiling and happy in their coffins. I consider as it's th' bounder duty of a 'angman to make it as pleasant as possible for 'is man, and to leave as nice a corpse as possible for 'is friends."

Mr. Berry has often had difficulty in get ting to the prison where he is to perform a job without being recognized. Many a time ue has shaved off his whiskers and put on a woman's dress. Putting his straps and ropes woman's dress. Putting his straps and ropes under his clothes, he goes in through the crowd unrecognized. "That's the way I got into Dublin jail," he says, "and that's the way I've done many a job."

Then he opened a wooden chest and took out the ropes and straps, and pulling the straps about himself and adjusting a rope about his own neck, threw the end over a beam and directed his interviewer how to proceed to illustrate a hanging thus present.

THAT TERRIBLE "GRIPPE,"

What It Really Is Explained by One of the Best Informed Men in America.

What It Really Is Explained by One of the Best Informed Men in America.

The president of one of the leading New York medical colleges, in conversation with the writer the other evening, sale:

"The Grippe, the Russian influenza, that has caused so much talk, is a more severe affliction than people usually inink. It arises mysteriously and appears to have its origin in the atmosphere. The last time it visited America was in 1833, and it came then, as now, from Asia. The name 'influenza' comes from the suggestion that the malady was due to the 'unfluences' of the heavenly bodies, but more modern science has discovered that it is due to the changes in the electrical conditions. Whatever may be the cause. It is a strong congestion of the blood vessels and mucuos membrane, principally in the head and throat, and nothing but strong sthoulants will check this congestion and keep the blood actively circulating. For this purroses I know of nothing better than whisky, and I believe Duffy's Pure Malt to be the best and purest whisky known to the world.

"Formerly the influenza was said to precede an epidemic of the plague, and the person who was about to be taken with the latter, had as a preliminary, a fit of sneezing. Now it precedes a worse epidemic than the plague, namely, the terrible pneumonia. Its beginning is slight, but its ending is often terrible. Pains in the limbs, back, chest and head; a scre throat and lack of appetite; copious discharge of the nose; these are some of the symptoms of this dread disease. Upon the slightest approach of any of these symptoms, a nervous beling or lassitude, resort should be had to a pure whisky, which is the only certain means of oreaking up this epidemic before it secures a hold upon the system or check it when it has become started. Care should be taken, however, to secure only that which is pure, as the article above named certainly is."
